TREATIES

Diplomatic Papers of the Third Coalition.

Presented to the British Parliament, Jan. 23th, 1806.

No. I. (D.)—(Translation.)

Sixth separate article of the treaty of concert between his majesty and the emperor of Russia, signed at Petersburg, 11th April, 30th March, 1805.

His majesty the king of the united kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and his majesty the emperor of all the Russias being disposed to form an energetic concert, with the sole view of insuring to Europe a lasting and solid peace, founded upon the principles of justice, equity, and the law of nations by which they are constantly guided, are aware of the necessity of a mutual understanding, at this time upon several principles, which they will evince in pursuance of a previous concert, as soon as the events of the war may render it necessary.

These principals are, in no degree to controul the public opinion in France, or in any other countries, where the combined armies may carry on their operations, with respect to the form of government which it may be proper to adopt; nor to appropriate to themselves till a peace should be concluded, any of the conquests made by one or the other of the belligerent parties; and to take possession of the towns and territories which may be wrested from the common enemy in the name of the country or state, to which by acknowledged right they belong, and in all other cases, in the name of all the members of the league; and finally, at the termination of the war, a general congress, to discuss and fix the provisions of the law of nations, on a more determined basis than unfortunately has hitherto been practicable; and to insure their observance by the establishment of a federative system calculated upon the same principles.

Done at St. Petersburg the 11th April 30th March, 1805.

(L. S.) Granville Leveson Gower.
(L. S.) Adam Prince Czartoryski.
(L. S.) Nicholas De Novossilzoff.

No. I. (E.)—(Translation.)

Eighth separate Article.

It being possible that the bias which the French government tries to give to the counsels of the different states of Europe, may determine one or other of those states to throw obstacles in the way of the attainment of the salutary effects, which are the object of the present concert, and even to have recourse to hostile measures against one of the high contracting parties, in spite of their endeavours to establish an equitable and permanent order of things in Europe, his Britannic majesty and his majesty the emperor of all the Russias agree to make common cause against every power, which, by the employment of its forces, or by too intimate an union with France, may pretend to raise essential obstacles to the development of those measures which the high contracting parties may have to take, in order to attain the object proposed by the present concert.

This separate article shall have the same force and validity as if it were inserted word for word in the treaty of concert signed this day, and shall be ratified at the same time.

In witness whereof, we the undersigned, by virtue of full powers have signed the present separate article and have affixed thereto the seals of our arms.

Done at St. Petersburg, the 11th April, 30th March 1805.

(L. S.) GRANVILLE LEVESON GOWER.
(L. S.) ADAM PRINCE CZARTORYSKI.
(L. S.) NICOLAS DE NOVOSSILZOFF.

No. I. (F.)—(Translation.)

Eleventh separate Article.

The high contracting parties acknowledge the necessity of supporting the proposition for peace which is their intention to make to Bonaparte by energetic demonstrations, have agreed to invite his imperial and royal apostolic majesty to put his armies in a state of readiness for action without delay, by completing their numbers and by concentrating them in the neighborhood of the borders of France. His Britannic majesty considering the extraordinary expense which this measure would render necessary, promises to engage to furnish to his imperial majesty immediately after his accession to the present concert, the sum of one millions of pounds sterling for premiere messe en campagne, which the king of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland will not reclaim, in case the negotiations for peace should not be crowned with success, provided that in a contrary event, Austria would take the field immediately.

This separate article shall have the same force and validity, as if it were inserted word for word in the treaty of concert signed this day, and shall be ratified at the same time.

In witness whereof we the undersigned, by virtue of our full powers, have signed the present separate article, and have affixed thereto the seals of our arms.

Done at St. Petersburg, the 11th April, 30th March 1805.

(L. S.) Granville Leveson Gower.
(L. S.) Adam Prince Czartoryski.
(L. S.) Nicholas De Novossilzoff.

No. I. (G.)—(Translation.)

Separate and secret article.

Although the high contracting parties have agreed by the first separate article of the treaty of concert established this day between them, that Austria and Sweden shall not partake of the advantages of the said concert, but in the event of their bringing their forces into action against France, four months after its signature, by virtue of their engagements with his majesty the emperor of all the Russias; yet his Britannic majesty considering the advantage of the future security of Europe, which results from an union similar to that formed by his majesty the emperor of all the Russias, with their majesties the emperor of Germany and the king of Sweden, for the purpose of opposing the further encroachments of Bonaparte, promises to fulfil the stipulations of the present concert, in the same manner as if he were one of the parties, both or one of them should bring their forces into action against France, in virtue of their engagements with his majesty the emperor of all the Russias.

This separate and secret article shall have the same force and validity as if it were inserted word for word in the treaty of concert signed this day, and shall be ratified at the same time.

In witness whereof, we the undersigned by virtue of our full powers, have signed the present separate and secret article, and have affixed thereto the seal of our arms.

Done at St. Petersburg the 11th April 30th March, 1805.

(L. S.) Granville Leveson Gower.
(L. S.) Adam Prince Czartoryski.
(L. S.) Nicolas de Novossilzoff.

No. I. (H.)—(Translation.)

Additional Article.

His majesty the emperor of all the Russias having in pursuance of his sincere desire to insure success to the enterprise concerted against France, determined, in case the circumstances should require it, to augment the force which he has promised to bring into action, to an 180,000 men, his majesty the king of the united Kingdoms of Great Britain and Ireland, promises and engages to pay, in that case, to his imperial majesty the emperor of all the Russias, for the troops which he may thus add to the 150,000 already agreed upon, a subsidy and a premiere messe en campagne, at the same rate as is agreed by the 5th separate article of the treaty of concert established between his majesty the king of the united Kingdoms of Great Britain and Ireland, and his majesty the emperor of all the Russias.

The 11th April, 30th March, 1805.

This additional article shall have the same force and validity as if it were inserted word for word in the aforementioned concert, and shall be ratified by the two high contracting powers, and the ratification shall be exchanged in the space of ten weeks, or sooner if possible.

In witness whereof the undersigned plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed to it the seals of their arms.

Done at St. Petersburg, the 10th May, 28th April, 1805.

(L. S.) Granville Leveson Gower.
(L. S.) Adam Prince Czartoryski.
(L. S.) Nicholas De Novossilzoff.

No. I. (I.)—(Translation.)

Additional article of the treaty of concert, signed at St. Petersburg, the 11th April 1805.

His majesty the emperor of all the Russias, purposing to concert measures with the court of Vienna, by which considerable Russian armies may be approximated to the frontiers of France, by crossing the Austrian and Prussian territories, while it is declared that the object of these movements is to obtain securities for the continent, promises and engages to his Britannic majesty, in his own name and in that of his allies, that, should circumstances require, that at the moment when the Russian troops began their march, they should declare that this movement was in no way connected with an existing concert with his Britannic majesty, but that the powers of the continent reclaim the fulfilment by France of her immediate engagements with them, yet as soon as war shall have broken out, they will no longer pursue a particular object, but that which has been determined by the concert of the 30th March, 11th April, with all the clauses incorporated with it.

In return, for this assurance his Britannic majesty promises and engages, in the first place, to fulfil towards the Emperor of all the Russias the stipulations of the above mentioned concert in all their parts, as soon as the war shall have broken out between Russia and France, and especially to furnish for the Russian troops the subsidies agreed upon, payable from the day on which they shall have quitted the frontiers of the empire; and moreover the three months stipulated subsidy under the name of premiere messe en campagne; with this condition nevertheless, that however long may be the term between the epoch of the departure of the Russian troops from their frontiers, and that of the commencement of hostilities, his Britannic majesty shall not be bound to pay to Russia for that interval more than six months subsidy at the most, the premiere messe en campagne being therein comprised.

In the second place to fulfil with regard to Austria, all the stipulations of the above mentioned concert, and especially all that relates to the subsidies, as soon as the ambassador of his imperial and royal majesty shall have signed the act of accession, of his court; and last, in the third place, to pay in the like manner to the other allies of Russia, who shall assist in this enterprise (except in the case of special arrangement) the subsidies which have been allotted to them by the above mentioned concert; and on the conditions therein specified.

This additional article shall have the same force and validity as if it were inserted word for word in the above mentioned concert and shall be ratified by the two high contracting parties, and the ratifications exchanged at St. Petersburg, in the month of July, 1805.

Signed,
(L. S.) Granville Leveson Gower.
(L. S.) Adam Prince Czartoryski.

No. II. (A.)—(Translation.)

Preliminary declaration of count Stadion to lord Granville Leveson Gower, dated at St. Petersburg, 28th July—9th August, 1805.

The undersigned ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of his imperial and royal apostolic majesty, by order of his august sovereign, after having invited his excellency the ambassador of Great Britain, to join with him in the preliminary declarations which he has exchanged this day with his excellency the prince of Czartoryski, has moreover declared as follows:

His imperial and royal apostolic majesty, in acceding to the treaty concluded on the 30th March—11th April, 1805, and subsequently ratified by the courts of London and St. Petersburg, under the reservations, modifications and demands, as announced in the above mentioned preliminary declarations, limits the pecuniary succors which he expects from his majesty the king of Great Britain, for the current year 1805, to three millions sterling, of which one million and a half is to be considered as premiere messe en campagne, and such is to be furnished with as little delay as possible; and the other million and a half as subsidies, to be paid in equal monthly payments, until the last day of the year. These subsidies, as well as one million of the sum appointed for premiere messe en campagne are to be furnished to his imperial majesty, and shall remain in his possession, even though the vigorous demonstrations in which his forces are actually employed, should not terminate in hostilities, but should lead, by the way of negotiation, to the re-establishment of peace. Moreover, as these armed demonstrations afford the greatest and most efficacious aid for the promotion of the object of the concert, to which his imperial and royal apostolic majesty has acceded, he expects that as long as they shall continue, the subsidy shall likewise continue to be paid, in the same manner as if his armies were employed in actual war, and that for the year 1806, and the subsequent years, in consideration of the great number of troops which he is opposing to the common enemy, the subsidy shall be increased to the sum of four millions sterling, payable in the same manner as is stated above, until the returns of the regiments into the hereditary dominions.

His excellency the ambassador of Great Britain having declared that the instructions and precise orders of his court precluded him from acceding without restriction, to the above mentioned demands, and having engaged, by a preliminary act exchanged against the present, in the name of his Britannic majesty, to stipulations which differ from them considerably, as well with regard to the sum, as to the terms of the propositions made in the name of his imperial and royal apostolic majesty.

The undersigned accepts this act, given in by the ambassador of England, but he declares at the same time that he does not consider the sums stipulated therein as sufficient, and that he expressly reserves for his court the power of reclaiming to this effect, and of effectuating the fulfilment of its demands.

In transmitting this preliminary declaration, which is to be in the place and have the validity of the most solemn treaty—to his excellency the ambassador of his majesty the king of Great Britain, he is authorised to declare to him at the same time, that he is ready to proceed immediately on these same bases, to the conclusion of the formal acts of accession of Austria to the concert of the 30th March, 11th April.

These presents shall be ratified by the respective courts in as short a time as is possible.

In faith of which the Undersigned by virtue of the full powers of his imperial and royal apostolic majesty, has signed the present preliminary declaration, and has affixed thereto the seal of his arms.

No. II. (B.)—(Translation.)

Declaration of count Stadion to prince Czartoryski, dated Petersburg, 28th July—9th August, 1805.

The undersigned ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of his imperial and royal apostolic majesty, being especially authorised by the emperor, his august master, declares in answer to the declaration which has been delivered to him by his excellency the prince Czartoryski this day's date, as follows:

1. His imperial and royal majesty, in accepting the different articles announced in this declaration, accedes to the concert concluded between the court of St. Petersburg and London the 30th March 11th April of this year, as well as to the last plan, which the Russian ministry has caused to be presented at Vienna. His majesty promises to fulfil the engagements therein, with the exceptions of the modifications, clauses, and demands included in the different official pieces to which his imperial majesty of Russia has given his consent to the preliminary declaration, which will be taken as the basis of the concert of measures which Austria and Russia are to employ for the attainment of their object.

2. His imperial and royal majesty engages to execute without delay the military arrangement agreed upon at Vienna, the 16th July, as well for the armed demonstration which is to facilitate the negotiation, as for the operations against the enemy which may ensue, in the confidence and certain expectation that the present preliminary agreement shall be unexceptionally and literally fulfilled, and that the definitive agreement shall be concluded without delay, and on the same basis between the three powers.

3. His imperial and royal majesty engages, as soon as the whole or a part of the Russian troops shall have passed their frontiers, not to treat for peace but on the basis which his majesty has himself acknowledged to be indispensable for the safety of Europe; and if hostilities shall take place, to make neither a peace nor truce, but with the consent of the allies, according to the stipulations of the concert of the 30th March 11th April of this year.

The undersigned, in delivering the present preliminary declaration, which is to be in the place and to have the validity of the most solemn act, to his excellency the prince Czartoryski, is authorised to announce to him at the same time, that he is ready to proceed immediately to the conclusion of the formal act of accession of the court of Vienna to the concert of the 30th March, 11th April.

The present declaration, and that delivered to the undersigned by his excellency the prince Czartoryski, shall be ratified by the respective sovereigns in the least possible time, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at St. Petersburg.

In faith of which the undersigned ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of his imperial and royal apostolic majesty, has signed the present preliminary declaration, and has affixed thereto the seal of his arms.

PARIS, March 30.

His excellency the minister of marine has received the following dispatch from captain Cocault, commandant of his majesty's corvette La Diligente, dated Port Louis Road, March 23.

SIR, Scarcely at anchor in this road, it is with regret that I seize the occasion to give you an account of the misfortunes which the vessels under vice admiral Lesseigues have sustained, and of which the corvette I have the honor to command, formed a part.

We left Brest on the 13th of December, the wind blowing pretty fresh from the N. E. to the number of 15 ships of the line, 6 frigates, and 4 corvettes.

On the 24th, we separated into several squadrons, and I was ordered to put myself under the command of vice admiral Lesseigues.

On the 25th, the wind continuing N. N. E. we made sail to the westward, when we discovered a convoy of upwards of 30 sail to the windward. The commandant made the signal to haul our wind and give chase, but after a pursuit of 8 hours, despairing of being able to come up with them, in consequence of their position, and the great distance they kept, he collected the squadron, and continued his voyage.

On the 4th Nivose, lat. 44. long. 24, from the meridian of Paris, we experienced a dreadful storm, the wind N. All the vessels suffered much; the Jupiter lost her main top-mast, and the Diomedé made a great deal of water.

The Alexander and Le Brave separated from us on the 5th, when vice-admiral Lesseigues's division was reduced to three ships of the line, two frigates and a corvette.

We discovered the Azores on the 2d of January, and on the 19th we were in sight of St. Domingo.

On the 20th in the morning, I had orders to take the lead of the division for the purpose of mooring in the road of St. Domingo, but the calms I met with were the cause of all the vessels arriving and coming to their moorings at the same time, viz. at 2 in the afternoon.

The admiral immediately gave orders for the disembarkation of the troops to the number of 1600 or 1800 men, with ammunition and other necessaries for the colony. This was completed on the 21st, and on disembarking we were convinced of the satisfaction the colony would feel upon receiving this reinforcement; the colony, however, was in very good condition, and enjoyed perfect tranquility.

On the following days the vessels were employed in taking in water, and repairing the damages occasioned by the bad weather. On the 29th, the Alexander joined the vessels in the road, and on the same day I was ordered out upon observation to the windward, and favored by the breeze from the shore, was upon the point of fixing my cruise off the Isles of Java.

On the 5th of February, conformable to my instructions, I took my course to St. Domingo, and being off the road at 6 in the morning, I discovered several sail in the ENE. which I immediately knew to be an enemy's squadron. I then distinguished in the squadron nine ships of war and several frigates, and immediately made the signal of an enemy of superior force, to our squadron. At half past six the admiral answered my signals; and in passing his moorings, I perceived on board his vessel the signal for slipping his cables. At seven o'clock the four ships of the line, and the two frigates were under sail, with a very light wind; while the enemy's nine ships of the line, and two frigates, were favoured by the shifting of the breeze from the N. to the E.

At a quarter before nine o'clock, the commandant made a signal for forming the line, and at the same time to carry all sail and prepare for action. The enemy, however, continued to gain upon us considerably.

At ten o'clock the headmost ship of the enemy's line was engaged with the Alexander, and in a quarter of an hour afterwards the fight was general. The quickness of the firing, and the thick smoke which concealed the vessels, prevented us from distinguishing any object. Being to the windward of our squadron, and at no great distance from the shore, I received a part of the enemy's fire which was directed against our headmost ships, and at last, to avoid going on shore, I found myself obliged to crowd sail, and go before the wind; the frigates La Comete and La Felicité practised the same manœuvre.

At half past 11 o'clock the smoke having in some measure disappeared, discovered one of our ships dismasted, and on fire, surrounded by several English vessels; the rest notwithstanding their inferiority maintained the contest with great fury; but at half past one overpowered by the enemy's superior numbers, they had run aground. Our frigates which had previously approached the scene of action, now found it convenient to haul their wind, and I thought it proper to follow their example, but fearing our retreat should be cut off we stood out to sea. However we had in the mean while approached near enough to observe the state of both squadrons; 3 of our ships seemed to be grounded near the batteries; the whole were dismasted, and the fourth was in the enemy's possession.

Two English ships lay near our own that were ashore, as bare as sheer hulks, all their masts and rigging shot away; they had fired signals of distress, & the frigates seemed busy in saving the crews: two other English ships dismasted at the same time were in the offing, and in a distressed situation; and the rest of the enemy's squadron seemed to have suffered considerably.

The French ships that were aground had their colors flying, and seemed to us to have hoisted out their boats for the purpose of putting their people on shore. Our ships had displayed a singular share of courage and resolution. The behaviour of the crews left us no doubt that, with an equal force, the enemy would have been crushed. If the squadron had been able to get to windward, and clear the coast, I am persuaded it would have had the advantage of the enemy, and been able to escape. Until this unhappy affair our cruise had all the success desired; our misfortunes arose from our remaining too long in the road.

Our corvette being chased by the enemy's frigates, was obliged to bear away. After having passed to the west of the island of St. Domingo, we entered the English channel on the 24th of February. In the night between the 9th and 10th of March, lat. 38, long. 46, we met with a violent gale from the south west, and lost sight of the frigates La Comete and La Felicité, with whom I kept company after leaving St. Domingo; not being able to hear any thing of them after the late gale, I neglected no means for hastening to return to France.

On the 25th of March, at day-break, I discovered the Isles de Glenau, and on the 26th I moored in the road of Port Louis, from whence I have the honor to transmit these unpleasant details. I have the honor to offer your excellency the assurance of my respects.

NEW YORK, June 10.

Our Jamaica papers by the Philadelphia are to the 17th of May inclusive. They furnish a few articles of Marine intelligence, and the following letters from Aruba on the subject of Miranda's expedition.

Extract of a letter from Aruba, to a merchant in Kingston, Jam. dated 3d May, 1806.

"The celebrated Miranda, a native of Caracas, has arrived here with a large American ship, and two armed schooners, having on board 280 men, destined to kindle the torch of Revolution upon the Continent. They have a considerable number of arms and ammunition, 10 Colonels, all the officers of a New Administration and Municipality. An embargo was immediately laid on here for 8 days. The greatest part of his people are Frenchmen, who seem to be pretty certain of their undertaking, and who begin here also as well as every where to grasp after the wealth and property of others. It is truly a hazardous undertaking, for if they make a faux pas, they will surely not be spared."

"This morning arrived a schooner from Curacao, with the intelligence that they are at anchor at the island Bonare, from whence they have sent their Missionaries to preach the new propaganda, and wait for answer. Fifty thousand men are said to be already collected for this enterprise, which it is not known yet, where it will begin."

Another letter from a gentleman of same date. "I have to acquaint you, Dear Brother, with my arrival here yesterday. I am very sorry that I was not here a fortnight ago, else I should have had the pleasure of seeing the conqueror of the Main, Don Miranda, with his Staff and Administration; he is convinced of the success of his enterprise: I wish it for Jamaica's sake with respect to the great commercial relation, which it will be furnished with. He is now at Bonare, from whence he has sent his deputies to prepare his party to receive him; he intends to acquaint your government immediately to open an intercourse as soon as possible. He promises protection to all those that intend to settle themselves in this country, either as merchants or as planters."

A Kingston paper of the 10th of May, contains the following interesting article

"KINGSTON, May 10. Arrived his majesty's ship Echo, captain Muddle, from Aruba. The Echo sailed from Aruba, with the expedition under general Miranda, but parted from the Leander on the same evening in a squall, and fell to Leeward of Curacao. She therefore returned to Aruba and took in a cargo of mules for Kingston."

"A vessel arrived at Aruba on the 3d inst. and brought intelligence that general Miranda had effected a landing at Porto Cavello; where the garrison, after discharging a few guns loaded with sand, opened the gates of the city and received him; also that Carracas was ready to yield in the same way, to which province he had proceeded; and that the Leander after debarking the general and staff, and 150 soldiers, had returned on the 30th ult to Bonare."

"The force under the Duke of Kent mentioned some time since, as being expected in the W. Indies, is reported to be destined against Carracas; and it is supposed, with good reason, that Miranda's expedition was fitted out under the auspices of Great Britain."

"The Leander, we understand, had 7000 stand of arms, and 500 barrels of gun powder on board."

A method of obtaining natural flowers in Winter, fresh blown any day you please.

Choose some of the most perfect buds of the Flowers you wish to preserve, such as are latest in blowing and ready to open; cut them off with a pair of scissors, leaving to each, if possible, a piece of the stem about 3 inches long; cover the end of the stem immediately with Spanish wax, and when the buds are a little shrunk and wrinkled, wrap each of them up separately in a piece of paper, as if dry clean and dry, and lock them up in a dry box or drawer, and they will keep without corruption.

In winter, or any other time, when you would have the flowers blow, take the buds over night and cut off the ends of the stem sealed with Spanish wax, and put the buds into water, where a little nitre or salt has been infused, and the next day you will have the pleasure of seeing the buds open and expand themselves, and the flowers display their most lively colors and breathe their agreeable odours.

ON HAPPINESS.

Quid sitis? Nihil; atqui licet esse beatum.

HOR.

NEITHER riches, honors nor applause can purchase true enjoyment; it is above price, yet it is free for all; we have only to open the door, and the smiling form enters, brightening and cheering all within. Although happiness is thus easily obtained, although it solicits admittance to every heart; many are complaining of their wretchedness or envying the seemingly happy condition of others. Envy is a viper that preys upon the soul. Whenever it enters the breast, farewell to all the tender feelings of friendship, all the nobler enjoyments of the present, and all the pleasing prospects of futurity. Such as cherish this secret, this deadly poison, are truly unwilling to be happy.

Religion is a fountain of enjoyment which never fails. Had the man of pleasure, the coxcomb, or the coquette ever tasted of this fountain, all other enjoyments would become insipid. Religion elevates the soul, disarms the king of terrors, and while it heightens present enjoyment, conducts the imagination forward beyond the veil of time, to scenes of peace, innocence, and love. It sweetens friendship, it strews flowers in the paths of its possessors. — The passions and other objects may indeed prevent its efficacy, as clouds and vapors may obscure the sun; but it neither admits diminution nor change.

Religion ever wears a smile; but the glooms of atheism destroy the sweetest pleasures of life. Where is the atheist's hope? Where his joyful prospects of futurity? Alas! He knows them not even in imagination. A dark cloud hovers over him. The thoughts of God crowd upon his mind, again he drives them from him, and shuns their approach as the awful monitors which warn him of his ruin. Not so with the friends of religion. Wherever nature smiles, it smiles for them. Are any happy? They rejoice. Are any in prosperity? They enjoy the same. In adversity? They acknowledge the hand of God unseen through the veil of mortality.

AN INQUIRY.

TELL me, O tell, who's that fantastic fair, Whose temples such a wreath of blossoms wear? Her fine blue eyes, so tremulous, in part, Sweet palpitation to a lover's heart. Between these gentle hills, obscured from sight, Which Cupid claims as his especial right; In that dear valley, blooms the rose, and lips A double fragrance from her rosy lips, And catches all its deep vermilion tinge From the contagious crimson of her face; Her robe, so green and airy, floats behind, And gaily flutters in the wanton wind. Dr. HAMILTON'S ELIXIR.

A sovereign remedy for Colds, Obsolete Coughs, Asth-mas, Catarrhs, Sore Throats, and approaching Consumptions.

To Parents who may have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH.

This discovery is of the first magnitude, as it is an immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorder to which children are liable. The Elixir is so perfectly agreeable and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

From LUTHER MARTIN, Esq. Attorney-General of the State of Maryland.

Gentlemen,
I comply with your request in stating my opinion of Hamilton's Elixir. It has been used in my family for two or three years past, with uniform success, whenever colds, coughs, or similar complaints have rendered medicine necessary. I have myself found it an excellent and agreeable remedy for a very painful and troublesome affection of the breast, accompanied with foreboding and with obstructed and difficult breathing.

On these accounts I do not hesitate to recommend Hamilton's Elixir, as a valuable medicine, and deserving public attention.

LUTHER MARTIN.

Mr. Abijah Henry, Bridge-Street, Baltimore, was cured by one bottle of Hamilton's elixir of a very complicated disorder, occasioned by a severe cold caught several months ago. He breathed with the greatest difficulty, and was often thrown into weakening sweats
when he attempted to walk any distance; and his voice would frequently fail in such a degree that he could only attempt to whisper. He has been upwards of six weeks without a return of his complaints and desires to give this public testimony in favor of his invaluable medicine.

Dr. Hamilton's

GRAND RESTORATIVE,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine, for the speedy relief and permanent cure of the various complaints which result from dissipated pleasures—juvenile indiscretions—excess in climates unfavorable to the constitution—the immoderate use of tea, frequent intoxication, or any other destructive intemperance—the unskillful or excessive use of mercury—the diseases peculiar to females and certain period of life—bad living in general.

Violent cramps in the Stomach and back;
Indigestion;
Melancholy;
Gout in the stomach;
Pains in the limbs;
Relaxation;
Involuntary emissions;
Obstinate gleets;
Impotency, &c. &c.

In cases of extremity, where the long prevalence and obduracy of disease has brought on a general impoverishment of the system, exclusive debility of the whole frame, and a wasting of the flesh, which no nourishment or cordial could repair, a perseverance in the use of this medicine has performed the most astonishing cures.

HAMILTON'S ESSENCE AND EX-TRACT OF MUSTARD,

A safe and effectual remedy for gout, rheumatism,
valley, sprains, bruises, pains in the face and neck, &c.
And has performed more cures in the above complaint
than all the other medicines ever before made public.

From Dr. Weatherburn, Wythe county, Virginia.

GENTLEMEN,

I purchased at your shop the preparations you call Hamilton's Essence, or Extract of Mustard, which I believe has perfectly removed a chronic rheumatism (of that kind named sciatica) of the hip joint under which I had labored for a long time, and which had baffled every article in the Materia Medica, and every mode of treatment received into practice for the cure of this obstinate disease. If you think this letter useful you are at liberty to make it public.
Yours, &c.

makes oath as follows, to wit:

That his wife, Mary Hoover, was so severely afflicted with a violent rheumatism, very dangerously situated, the consequence of a severe cold after lying in, as to be confined to her bed for several weeks, and was at length reduced to the melancholy apprehension of remaining a cripple for life, notwithstanding the most respectable medical advice was followed, and every probable remedy attempted; when seeing several cases of cures performed by Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard, they were procured from Mr. Birch, No. 17, South Second Street. The first application enabled her to walk across the room, and the use of one bottle restored her to her usual state of health and strength.

WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES,

Which have within four years past cured upwards of one hundred and twenty thousand persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to similar drugs, so commonly complained of as operating with violence, on the contrary a particular excellence of this contains nothing but what is possibly innocent, and to mild in its operation that it can delicate pregnant lady, or the tender old should no worms exist in the our pain or griping, cleanse the whenever is foul or offensive, and the production of worms and many They are particularly efficacious in mors and corruptions, fevers, and

and the safest and mildest purgative
the occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms
by which they are known.

Worms which infect the human body, are chiefly of four kinds, viz. the Terebra or large round worm, the Ascarides, or small maw worm, the Cucurbitina, or short flat, white worm; and lastly, the Tania or tape worm to be called from its resemblance to tape; this is often many yards long, and is full of joints—less most hurtful and most difficult to cure.

Among the symptoms attending worms, are disagreeable breath, especially in the morning—Bad and corrupt gums—itching in the nose and about the face—Convulsions and epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech—Starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep—Irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious—Purging, with slimy and fetid stools—Vomiting—Large and hard belly—Pains and sickness at the stomach—Pains in the head and thighs, with lowness of spirits—Slow fever, with small and irregular pulse—A dry cough—Excessive thirst—Sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms
should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's worm destroying lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season will effectually prevent the vomiting and purging of children, a dreadful disorder which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our cities. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known and has restored to health and strength a great number when in advanced stages of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness,
having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

TAPE WORM.

Mr. SAMUEL FULLER, Inn keeper, on the Harford road, ten miles from Baltimore, began about twenty months ago to be grievously afflicted with a tape worm, which increased fast in size and strength, so as to excite
the most horrid sensations by his writhing motions and intolerable pains, resembling the gnawing and tearing of his bowels, which deprived him of his necessary sleep, and caused such dreadful apprehensions as cannot be expressed but by one in a similar situation—his appetite wasted rapidly, and with that his strength, so that he was unable to attend to any business—when he heard of lozenges, he took a large dose, which wrought away a bout FOUR YARDS of the worm (now in the possession of Lee, & Co.) but a renewal of his pains soon convinced him that this monstrous reptile had recovered its first vigor—Application was made to Lee & Co. for more of their medicine, with their advice, from which retained the total expulsion of his formidable enemy, in several pieces, which he supposed to be SIX or EIGHT YARDS more. A few months have since elapsed, and Mr. Fuller is now in perfect health. The above facts are well known to a numerous circle of his neighbors and himself will gratify any who may wish to make further inquiries on the subject. Although Hamilton's worm lozenges produce such powerful effects, when necessary, yet they are perfectly innocent and mild in their operation on the human body, even taken in large doses, as Mr. Fuller will testify—their particular efficacy is abundantly evident in innumerable cures of infants.

Communicated by Dr. John Spangler, York town, Pennsylvania.

Letter from the Reverend Mr. JOHN MOLTHER, minister of the Moravian church, in York town.
York, January 4th, 1802.

DEAR SIR,

Dr. Hamilton's lozenges have been recommended to me as a very adequate means for the cure of children afflicted with worms, I procured a box for the use of my family, to try whether by means of this medicine
I might be enabled to gain a point, which, to accomplish, different other means had proved abortive. My eldest boy had a very sickly appearance, was very reluctant at night, grew leaner from time to time; in short, he seemed to be in a precarious state of health, which would yield to none of the medicines administered, until I gave him two doses of lozenges, agreeably to the directions, which carried off a substance to all appearance a more mucus but upon close inspection quite re-peled with very small living animals. Not one of that sort of worms which usually afflict children came from him. Since that period he grew remarkably better in health, and though lean, has got a fresh and lively complexion. Upon different occasions I have used this medicine as a purging substitute, and found it to answer exceedingly well, without bringing on belly ache, or any other disagreeable sensations, to often occasioned by purging medicines. Upon the whole I judge this medicine to be, besides its main object, one of the most salutary means for restoring lost appetite, and promoting a proper rate of digestion, by carrying off that bilious substance, which engenders to much indisposition both among children and adults.

I am, Sir, your most obedient servant.

ishes in the face and skin of every kind, particularly freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, foulness, rashes, rings worms, yaws, bunos, pickle
heat, &c.

The Persian Lotion operates mildly, without impeding the natural perspiration, which is so essential to health. Yet its salutary effects are speedy and permanent, rendering the skin delicately soft and clear, improving the complexion, and restoring the bloom of youth. No fading or rendering an ordinary convenience ful, and an handsome one more so.
